Waterfield-Breathitt Match Wits For Special Session

LI. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield said Tuesday night that "if it gets to the point that it's necessary" he would call a special legislative session when Gov. Edward T. Breathitt leaves the state.

That action would only be taken if Breathitt continues to leave taxpayers in doubt about what will be done concerning the Court of Appeals ruling on 100 per cent property assessments, he said.

But Waterfield said he has no present plans of doing so and indicated that next week, when Breathitt will attend the National Governor's Conference in Minnesota, will not be the proper time.

He reiterated that he thinks it is Breathitt's responsibility to call a special session to clear the air on what taxpayers can expect as a result of the court's rulings.

The lieutenant governor was asked to comment on a published report that pressure is being mounted on Breathitt to call a special session this week before he leaves the state for fear that Waterfield would do so when he is away.

Waterfield would not commit himself. While he has no present plans, time and circumstance might change things, he said.

The lieutenant governor said he has told Breathitt personally and publicly a special session is needed.

"If he continues to show no interest in the welfare of the taxpayers," Waterfield said, "then I might do it at the proper time if given the opportunity."

Taxpayers are demanding a decision, he said, because the court's ruling "has already happened." Telegrams and letters by Breathitt to local taxing districts are not the kind of action they are looking for, he said.

Investigation Continues In Siegel Thefts

No charges have been placed against the 17 persons implicated in the alleged thefts of merchandise from the Henry I Siegel Company, South Fulton Police Chief Elmer Mansfield reported Wednesday.

Although three of the persons involved signed confessions to stealing a quantity of men and women's garments from the factory, and others were jailed for questioning in connection with the alleged thefts, no formal arrests have been made.

Investigation into the incident continues by both Tennessee and Kentucky law enforcement officers. According to information received by the News all of the employees have been discharged.

Ferry-Morse Transfers Remind Us Company Has Great Family

Members of Ferry-Morse Seed Company's large and influential family moved into Fulton some six years ago and immediately delved headlong into every phase of Fulton's community life. As the months grow into years, the associations and friendships the family makes grow deeper into the roots of community life.

Periodic transfers made by the "family" in the pursuit of growing larger bring new and interesting families into the community, but alas they also necessitate leaving behind those who have become entrenched in our lives and in our hearts.

Such is the sadness that is being witnessed in the communities right now by the transfers of George and Pat Albritton, Dick and Lois Lindberg and Thayer and Nita Bruce. Each of the families has found a special niche in the affection of the community, for each has given its best talents and interests to the civic, social, cultural and religious life of our twin cities.

All three of the families are being transferred to the Ferry-Morse plant location in Mountain View, California. Their departures are spaced during the summer, which is good for all of us—a lot of sadness a little at a time.

Each family will leave its individual and hard to fill void in some mighty important activities in these twin cities. George Albritton has been an active member of the Lion's Club and a lot of other organizations, but his major contribution for leaving a lasting impression around here is the superb enjoyment he furnished as one of the key performers in the Lion's Club annual minstrel.

Dick and Lois Lindberg also have been busy young people and the Girl Scout program will surely feel their absence nearly as much as their friends will miss their extremely pleasant personalities.

Thayer Bruce is the kind of a fellow who makes any acquaintance feel like a long-time friend and the same is true of his wife Nita. But in addition to Nita's delightful personality her friends will miss her expert knowledge as a duplicate bridge player. There's many a gal around town who knows a lot more about bridge than she did before Nita came along . . . and surely there are those who know even more about duplicate bridge because Nita has taken her time to teach classes in this involved, and yet immensely pleasant activity . . . (for those who like bridge, understand.)

Monday the duplicate bridge players at the Country Club surprised Nita with a farewell luncheon in her honor. It couldn't have happened to a nicer person.

'Tis a fond farewell we wish these departing members of the Ferry-Morse family. It is not goodbye, for there will be many constant hopes that the Ferry-Morse parents will send them back to Fulton "ere too long."

Fulton's Housing Project Great Asset To Local Progress

WESTWOOD is the largest of Fulton's three housing developments and will contain half of the total of 50 units which will have from one to five bedrooms in single residences and duplexes. They are planned for people on pensions or social security and for average working-class families.

Work is well under way on the Fulton Municipal Housing Commission's three projects. Construction began about May 1 and is expected to be completed February 1.

The developments are Westwood, located on the former Carr property between North College Street and Fairview Avenue near Fairview Cemetery; Eastwood on the old Huddleston land off Burns Avenue, and Oak Heights on the former Thomas property at Burton Avenue and Norman Street near the water works.

A total of 50 units are being constructed. Half are in Westwood, 10 in Eastwood, and 15 in Oak Heights. Full occupancy is expected by March 15.

Some of the units are single-family residences and some are duplexes. They range in size from one to five bedrooms per unit. Three shades of brick and four shades of roofing are being used.

Work on Oak Heights is slightly more advanced than that on the other two areas. Brick siding is now being added to several of the houses, and the framing is completed on all but three. All the floors have been poured and much of the plumbing has been finished.

The main office will be located in Westwood on North College Street.

The units are designed to be rented by people on pensions and social security, average working-class families, and others with similar incomes. Rents will be based on the tenant's income and the number of dependents he has. They will include all utilities except electricity.

Preliminary applications for units are now being taken by the Housing Commission office on Commercial Avenue. A second application must be filed later for actual consideration and selection of tenants.

Renters must earn less than an annual amount to be determined and specified at a later date, and must earn enough to insure the ability to meet their obligations. As the incomes of tenants change their rents will be re-adjusted. Character will be considered in order to insure proper care of the units. Periodic inspection of houses and yards will be made, as is usual for rental property.

Richard Myatt, executive director of the Municipal Housing Commission, said there are already more preliminary applications than units, but since many will not qualify more are being accepted.

The total cost of the project will be about $701,000, Myatt said. It is being financed by bonds sold by the Housing Commission and guar-

Approximately $1,000 was raised for Twin Cities Youth, Inc., at a picnic supper attended by more than 1,400 people in the City Park last Thursday night.

Members of the board of directors expressed great pleasure with the support shown Fulton's recreation program for young people.

The Cardinals girls' softball team and the Reds of the boys' Minor League were awarded a trip to a St. Louis Cardinals game for having sold the greatest number of tickets to the fund-raising picnic.

The girls' team is coached by Mrs. Carl Greer and Mrs. Fred Collier, and the boys' baseball team by Joe Graves and James Robey.

The Fulton Phillies, an advanced girls' softball team, was also awarded tickets to a St. Louis game because of the large number of tickets they sold. They are managed by Jimmy and Peggy Gilbert.

All food for the fund-raising picnic was donated by E. W. James and Sons Supermarket, whose employees helped in the preparation and serving.

Banana Festival Selected As Occasion For 'Operation Amigo' Diplomacy Plan

The Banana Capital of the World will send students to the Banana Crossroads of America and in the course of the visits prove that bananas can be a common denominator in proving the coincidence of interest that lies between America and those Latin-American neighbors to the south of us.

The Operation Amigo program which brings Latin American students to the United States for two-week visits has chosen the occasion of the Third International Banana Festival to bring 20 students from Ecuador to observe democratic processes at work. In addition, Ecuador's 1965 official reigning beauty queen, Miss Patricia Ballesteros, will accompany the students and be a guest participant in the annual beauty pageant to be held in connection with the Festival. (Photo, front page second section.)

The students coming under the auspices of the Operation Amigo program will come from Quito and Guayaquil, the latter city being known as the "Banana Capital of the World." The students will arrive in Miami about September 18 and come on to Fulton on Sunday, September 19. All expenses incident to their travel from Ecuador to Miami will be borne by Operation Amigo, Inc., a non-profit Florida corporation formed by some of America's largest newspapers, foundations, and private business enterprises.

The Paducah Sun-Democrat has joined the Fulton newspapers in sponsoring Operation Amigo at the Banana Festival. Frank Paxton, publisher of the paper, expressed his deep interest in the program and is enthusiastic in his efforts to assist Festival officials in the undertaking.

H. Stuart Morrison, director of Operation Amigo revealed that Fulton is the smallest city ever selected for participation in the international goodwill program. In confirming all negotiations for the student visitation program, Mr. Morrison said:

"Like Operation Amigo your exciting Banana Festival is a daring experiment that has resulted in an established program to extend a personal opportunity for tomorrow's Latin-American leaders to get a first hand view of how we live and prosper under a system devoted not to revolution but to democratic evolution.

"The tremendous strides made by your communities in staging the Banana Festival with its significant theme, Project-United Us, has made a lasting impression in Latin-American diplomatic circles and bids well to become instrumental in affecting the course of our nation in the hemisphere.

"Yet the thing that intrigues us about the Banana Festival is that it combines gaiety with dignity while performing as diplomats in the best tradition of the corps."

Louisville, Memphis, San Francisco, Houston, Denver and Detroit are other cities where Operation Amigo has visited.

Operation Amigo was conceived by the Miami Herald in 1961, and has since become a non-profit, national organization with the support of the Copley Newspapers, the Knight Newspapers, Scripps-Howard Newspapers and the Hearst Newspapers and other newspapers and business organizations throughout the country.

The program brings students from the Latin American countries to the United States to observe democratic processes at work.

During their two-week visits, the students live in the homes of American youngsters, attend school with them and tour government offices.

"In the past, Americans have left the difficult task of diplomacy solely to the government," Morrison said. "Operation Amigo has opened up a new opportunity for us to practice diplomacy on a personal basis."

Morrison said that Operation Amigo has been successful in marshalling support from the students in behalf of freedom and its institutions against a barrage of Communist propaganda in their countries.

Gov. Fannin of Arizona, who was a businessman in Mexico several years, noted that the exchange was a two-way street. "We got as much from them as they get from us," he said.

In addition to the students being sent here under the sponsorship of Operation Amigo, other students will come from: Colegio Americano de Quito, Quito, Ecuador; The American School, Guatemala City, Guatemala; Colegio Bolivar, Cali, Colombia; Escuela Internacional Sampedrana, San Pedro Sula, Honduras; Sociedad Escuela Jorge

Reporter Travels Mexico Where Guides Must Fear To Tread

By Wayne Anderson
First in a series

When I was a senior in high school a girl was telling an interested class of mine that she had just gotten a letter from her army boy friend in Germany. "How does he like it?" we all asked eagerly. To our surprise she said, "Oh he just hates it; he can't stand anything about it." The reason? Very simple: "Because it's different." And he had only been there three days!

I, like most of us, like distant places, and more than any other reason simply because they really are different. To me the most enjoyable thing about foreign travel is being able to immerse myself in the chin in all that strange, exciting newness and difference.

That is exactly what I and a German friend from Tulane did for most of last month. We covered about 8,000 miles in Mexico without tours, guides, hotels and restaurants catering to Americans, or even the cultural insulation of a companion of the same nationality.

I will have to admit, however, that we did have a copy of a guide book written in 1953.

As students, we both had to make the trip on an extremely tight budget, and, fortunately, there are few better places to do it. The most we ever had to spend for a decent hotel room was two dollars apiece in Mexico City. Prices are high there.

The cheapest was a little mountaintop lodge with cleanliness, good beds, a wonderful view, and charming atmosphere. Price per person? Forty cents. It is true that the bathroom was across the patio, the water had only one temperature, and the lights were cut off at 10:00. But they gave us a candle. That added even more to the charm of the place, and anyway, what do you want for forty cents?

Before I give the impression that even a suite in the Hilton would be possible for the average human being, one thing needs explaining. If you go where all the other Americans go you pay American prices and get American comforts.

Such things are there if you want to feel at home, but if you want to really know you are abroad stay at the hotels the average Mexican tourists use.

We always looked for the old turn-of-the-century places. As a rule they are located right on the town or city plaza, the center of everything in a country where people enjoy gathering to stroll, talk, flirt, and sit without the supposed benefits of air conditioning and television.

Most of these hotels are as elegant as anything Hollywood dreams up. In such a setting you hardly notice that the beds and pillows are frequently bad, that the bathroom fixtures are, shall we say, quaint, and that neither air conditioning nor hot water have yet been invented.

After a day or two of changing

Botched Up, Amateurish Probe Of Pinball Affair Should Remind Breathitt ABC Needs Overhaul

News reports coming out of Frankfort, Kentucky this past week-end indicated that Governor Breathitt thinks the State botched the probe of alleged pinball operations in Jefferson County. The remark was made in connection with a political who-dunit charging Jefferson County Judge Marlow Cook with being in attendance at a meeting purportedly held by certain representatives of the liquor industry to plan to solicit funds for pinball machine interests.

There's no need to go into much detail about the incident, because the whole affair reminds us of some slapstick TV situation into which Andy Griffin's inept deputy gets involved. Anyway an agent of Kentucky's Alcoholic Beverage Board reported at the beginning of the fiasco that Judge Cook was at a meeting at a restaurant called the Back Door, of all things, to join in raising a sizeable amount of money to either promote the pinball industry, or to fight Governor Breathitt's crusade against them.

At a hearing to investigate the alleged meeting ABC board attorney Frank Dailey comes forth and admits, under questioning by the defense, that he had no proof that Judge Cook was present when pinball funds were discussed and sought. An administration source said Breathitt was furious at what the governor regards as a botched legal job for the State. The source said that Breathitt is angry at being cast in the role of a mistaken zealot who had his facts fouled up in the anti-pinball crusade.

We regret that Governor Breathitt was embarrassed and humiliated as a result of the misinformation given him by his ABC board agents. We regret even more the fact that Breathitt found out, at the expense of damage to his integrity, that the Kentucky Alcoholic Beverage Board is long overdue for a complete overhaul in the administrative procedures of this very important department of State government.

We hope that the Jefferson County pinball-liquor industry incident will jar the leaders of the liquor industry in Kentucky into realizing that many more fumbles by the ABC board will eventually cast this legal, lucrative, and heavy tax-paying industry into an image of ill repute from which it can never recover.

Like smoking, people don't have to consume alcoholic beverages unless they want to. But unlike the tobacco industry, which is also a highly remunerative one for Kentucky, the liquor industry somehow continues to tolerate the castigations imposed upon it by do-gooders, inefficient field agents hired to administer its regulations, and by nefarious political leaders who traffic in the sale of liquor licenses to a notorious degree.

It is beyond our comprehension to understand why the liquor industry appears reluctant to demand that Kentucky up-grade its standards of control and administration of its industry. In sharp contrast to the coal industry, which is constantly waging a battle to maintain its status quo of operation, the liquor industry permits its public image to be down-graded at every turn because the regulations controlling the industry are in the hands of administrators whose record of performance is much less than distinguished.

Last week a high level spokesman for the Tennessee Alcoholic Beverage Commission told this newspaper that large scale bootlegging operations on the Kentucky-Tennessee border have reached a point of alarming concern to Tennessee. That's not all, in certain Kentucky "dry" counties in the Fulton vicinity, some bootleg whiskey operations are so open and flagrant that it is almost laughable. Yet ABC field agents contend they see no evil, hear no evil, and certainly report no evil.

The crack-down by the Tennessee ABC Commission would not have been necessary had Kentucky taken the smallest precaution to adhere to its lawful regulations. Opening an office in Union City, which in effect, is to police Kentucky's liquor laws, certainly makes Kentucky's ABC board look more than ridiculous. In addition to the unfavorable publicity our towns have received as a result of Tennessee's action, it is surely going to have a harmful effect on those liquor dealers who will lose "by-the-bottle sales," because of the fear on the part of tourists and South Fulton, Tennessee residents to get apprehended for possessing even the smallest amount of non-Tennessee tax paid whiskey.

The story concerning the crack-down on large scale bootleg operations originating in Fulton County first appeared in the Union City Daily Messenger. In following up on the story this newspaper published remarks made by the Tennessee ABC commissioner, who was emphatic in his intent to halt the growing proportions to which bootlegging has grown in this area.

Yet a field agent for the Kentucky ABC Board has said that the Tennessee action "won't amount to much." Which means in effect, that administering the regulations set down for the liquor industry in Kentucky will be handled in the same sloppy manner, letting one or two high lords of liquor traffic make the rules, establish the modus operandi, and even dictate to the bootleggers as to where they will buy their whiskey.

It is a sad commentary on the whole miserable operation that the little merchant, who knows nothing of, and cares little about merchandising thinks that the sale of alcoholic beverages here reflects the pace of our economy. People shop where the prices are right and the merchandise is good and couldn't care less about what keeps the wheels of industry rolling.

We hope Governor Breathitt stays in his state of fury long enough to get the message that his ABC board ought to learn the A. B. C's of liquor law administration. Thus far some of the administrators and field agents have flunked even the most elementary courses. Unless the liquor industry does some cramming to put into motion a good public relations program for itself, an irate population is someday going to remove the industry from the state's industrial and economic curricula.

We stand to lose a good deal of advertising revenue and other business if anything should happen to close up the alcoholic beverage industry in Fulton or Kentucky. Yet we are not going to have this revenue dictate to our news columns. We want you to know that we're getting mighty weary of having the good name of our community banded around in the state-wide news media as being lawless and indifferent to the disgrace perpetrated on us by some arrogant liquor dealers.

It's like the old saying . . . one bad apple in the barrel can ruin them all. Shall we stand by and let this happen?

For Better Urban-Rural Relations

About the closest contact suburban dwellers have with farming these days is the supermarket. There are fewer and fewer people who can claim that their fathers or grandfathers were farmers. All of this weakens the ties between city and country dwellers and lessens the understanding of agriculture and its role in our economy.

In recent years, civic clubs, agricultural groups and farm organizations have cooperated in sponsoring an annual national Farm-City Week that has contributed greatly to better relationships between rural and urban areas.

This month marked another significant development in "operation understanding." It was the opening June 12 of the Agricultural Hall of Fame and National Agricultural Center, 12 miles west of Kansas City, Missouri, at the Kansas Turnpike and Bonner Springs, Kansas, interchange.

Here on a gently rolling site of 275 acres, the first building was formally opened and the ceremony drew national farm business, and agricultural education leaders from all parts of the United States.

This agricultural center is designed to focus national attention on the role of agriculture in America. It is essentially a living memorial and a year round show place for agriculture and related industry. It is not a dusty museum concerned only with the old days, but is designed to tell the story of agriculture past, present and future.

Acquisition of the land and construction of the first building was made possible through 14,000 voluntary subscriptions from farmers and ranchers as well as other individuals, industries and organizations.

Adjacent to the Hall of Fame site, the Wyandotte County, Kansas, Park Board has developed a 350-acre park, and the State of Kansas has acquired 70 acres located between the site and the Kansas Turnpike for improvement and development of the area. The Kansas state legislature is also considering establishing an experimental farm in the area.

The Wyandotte Park was conceived primarily as a buffer zone for the adjacent Hall of Fame to prevent commercialization of the area.

First Hall, as the initial building on the site is designated, is one of the 10 buildings planned as part of the complex. On the planning board are a Hall of States, a small auditorium to seat about 800 people, a historical agricultural library, a research and futuristic hall, a hall of industry, a livestock hall, farm machinery and equipment building, etc. There also will be a children's farm, operational rural village, horticulture, forestry and crop plots, and livestock.

The land, improvements and First Hall are all paid for and free of debt, and represent an investment of more than $400,000. Next goal is to raise voluntary contributions for operating capital and remaining buildings. Judging from the enthusiasm of the several thousand at the formal opening weekend, the goal will be met through local, county and state campaigns throughout America. Policies under which the non-profit Hall of Fame and National Center operate are made by a board of governors numbering 169, with representatives from each of the 50 states and Puerto Rico.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

Frankfort—

One of the basic pledges in the platform on which I ran for Governor two years ago was to promote the conservation of Kentucky's natural resources.

The hard looks I have just taken at strip mine operations in both Eastern and Western Kentucky prompt me to broaden that pledge.

I have instigated action to try to relieve the sorry situation in which the owners of surface land in Eastern Kentucky find themselves because of the so-called broad form, or long-form deeds to mineral rights.

The Courts have held the mineral-rights deeds, drawn up 50 or more years ago, give their owners the power to strip the surface of the land to get out the coal beneath despite the protests of owners of the surface who may be ruined in the process.

In furtherance of my determination to alleviate this situation, if at all possible, I have asked the Attorney General to intervene in a Knott County court case to test again at length the legality of the long-form deeds.

I have assigned a lawyer from my office to assist in the suit, outside counsel will be hired if necessary, and we are prepared to go even to the U. S. Supreme Court for a final interpretation.

In the Knott County case, 19 land owners were enjoined from interfering with mining operations which they said caused silt, stone and other debris to wash onto their property.

The landowners asked the court through their attorney to dissolve the restraining order and to declare the land off-limits to the coal operators on the grounds that the old long-form deeds should not apply to strip and auger mining. Strip and auger mining were unknown when most of the deeds were written.

As a result of my tour of the strip and auger mining section of Eastern Kentucky, I have directed the Department of Natural Resources to adopt regulations aimed at solving the problems caused by mining on steep slopes and other practices which result in damage to homes, streams, wildlife and vegetation.

I was pleased to note on my trip to Western Kentucky that worthwhile reclamation work had been done under provisions of the strip-mine law passed by the 1964 General Assembly.

It was apparent, however, that we have not done all we must do, and with that in mind I ordered a new regulation that will require flattening into rolling terrain the hills of earth stripped off to get at the coal. This would eliminate deep pits and valleys that hold acid water.

The inspection trips proved to me that it is vitally important that the State act with responsibility in the whole area of strip and auger mining to protect the rights of the citizens of today as well as those of tomorrow. It is increasingly apparent that further action will be necessary at the 1966 Legislature.

My determination to continue to work for a Federal strip mining law was also strengthened by the inspection trips. Because some states have no laws or lax laws, Kentucky's coal firms, operating under strict laws, are at a competitive disadvantage.

I have asked the Tennessee Valley Authority, as well as private utilities to pay Kentucky producers a higher price for the coal they use, to help bear the cost of reclaiming the land so severely damaged by strip mine operations.

My thanks go out to all who have supported me and continue to support me in these efforts to save our land.

Letters To Editor

Editor
Fulton County News
Fulton, Kentucky

Dear Sir:

I had the opportunity to read from the column "Jottings From Jo's Notebook" the article about the sad death of Smith Atkins.

This article made an everlasting impression because so many things were said that I would like to have said about Smith, hence this letter to you.

It was my good luck to have worked for Smith as a high school boy in a business known as "West Kentucky Finance Company" and as his assistant the two of us cleaned up the office, taking turns washing out the spittoons, kept books and made collections in the entire area between Fulton and Greenfield, Tennessee. These were lean percession years, but our little company always made money for its stockholders under Smith's guidance.

I left Smith in September of 1926, if memory serves me correctly, to attend college on a scholarship which he arranged for me, and that ended our association except for infrequent, occasional brief visits, but there was never any question about a strong bond of friendship which existed between the two of us. We never corresponded and sometimes many, many years would elapse between visits, but there was never any question about the depth of the friendship. I always knew immediately on these infrequent contacts that my old friend was the same humble, loyal smalltown guy who taught me so much, "baled" me out of a few teenage jams, worked my tail off and gave the kind of encouragement a youngster needs so badly during that formative stage, and it was always refreshing to see that in spite of obvious success financially and otherwise he was always the same sweet guy who thought first of the other fellow.

My most recent contact was a long distance call from San Francisco. This occurred several years ago and he simply said "This is Smith Atkins and I wanted to say 'hello'!"

Naturally during the past forty years I have been associated with all kinds of people in all walks of life, but I can say very honestly that I have seen just two or three people who could match his good brain capacity, but I have never met another person to match his capacity for friendship.

Like you I am glad I knew him, but many, many times have regretted that circumstances separated us.

That is why your article has made such a deep impression on me. It belongs in Reader's Digest under their "Most Unforgettable I Ever Met"; if you agree perhaps I could be of assistance in getting it there.

The lady who wrote so wonderfully about Smith must be a lovely person too.

Very truly yours,
Harrison Scates

Dear Jo:

Your idea about Adlai Stevenson is superb, if you can get him. I had such an enormous number of invitations filter through my hands that, years ago, I ceased extending them. I felt that, in fairness to the one extending the invitation, it would be better to go from the person or the organization direct rather than to be one of the large number that kept coming through me. Consequently, I would suggest that you write to him direct and refer him to Averell Harriman as one who was there only last year.

One problem about Adlai, of course, is that world events frequently make him unavailable at the last minute even on engagements that he has accepted some time before. Obviously, you can refer him to me as well as to Averell for information about the Banana Festival and I will be glad to help. I do not hold forth any particular encouragement as I know the enormous number of invitations he receives but then, on the other hand, it just might be one that would strike him as appropriate at this particular time.

Best of luck.

Cordially,
Wilson W. Wyatt

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Bard, Mr. Elliott Sunday

On Sunday afternoon, July 4, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the Mt. Zion Cumberland Presbyterian Church was the scene of a most impressive double ring wedding ceremony. Miss Phyllis Ann Bard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bard of Water Valley, Route 1, and Mr. Calvin Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Elliott of Fulton, Route 2, were united in marriage by the Rev. Frank Blain, pastor of the church.

The church altar was beautifully decorated. The central arrangement was an archway entwined with greenery, and topped the archway were two white and silver bells tied with white satin bows. Immediately behind the archway and above the bells was a tall silver candelabra with white candles, flanked on either side by tall tapered baskets of white gladioli. White satin bows marked the ends of the pews.

Preceding the nuptials, Mrs. Bobby Gene Rhodes at the piano and Miss Julie Binford at the organ played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Melody of Love." Mrs. Jimmie Green sang "Because," accompanied by the piano and organ. Mrs. Rhodes and Miss Binford then played "O Perfect Love" and Mrs. Green sang "Whither Thou Goest I Will Go." "The Lord's Prayer" was beautifully and impressively rendered to conclude the pre-nuptial music and the traditional processional and recessional marches were played.

The petite bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a street length dress of white chiffon with a lace jacket, with elbow length sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of imported illusion fell gracefully from a tiny band of white satin and securing the band was a white satin rose and tiny buds. She carried a white Bible topped with two cymbidium orchids, showered with stephanotis and love knots.

Mrs. Nicky McClanahan of Clinton, Kentucky, maid of honor, was lovely in a rose colored lace dress over satin and her tiny veil matched her dress. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Rev. John Shepherd of Tiptonville, Tennessee, served as best man, and ushers were Don Russell Green and David Webb.

Mrs. Bard, mother of the bride, who has been confined in the hospital for several weeks, was able to attend her daughter's wedding and was lovely in a mint green convalescent ensemble. Her corsage was a pink cymbidium orchid. For her son's wedding Mrs. Elliott chose an attractive floral print of American beauty crepe, with hat and accessories to match. Her shoulder corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

A recreation was held in the church basement immediately following the ceremony. Hostesses were the ladies of the church, headed by Mrs. Frank Blain, the pastor's wife. The room was very attractive with white gladioli and greenery, interspersed with summer cut flowers, arranged to complement the receiving line.

Miss Cathy Ann Elliott, sister of the groom, presided at the register. She wore a creation of variegated colors of American Beauty crepe, predominately blue, and her shoulder corsage was pink carnations.

The table was overlaid with a lace tablecloth. The central appointment was a silver candelabra with white candles, a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom at one end of the table and the crystal bowl service at the other end.

Serving the cake were Misses Katie Walker and Joyce Stephens and at the punch bowl were Misses Joyce Binford and Ann Henderson, all lovely in pink lace and sheer summer fabrics. Miss Binford, organist, wore a robin's egg blue dress, with velvet bow of matching color in her hair. Mrs. Rhodes, the pianist, wore a yellow cotton dress.

Following the reception, the couple left on a short honeymoon. They will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

Members Of Fulton High Class Of 1943 Reunite on Twenty-Second Anniversary

The members of Fulton High School's class of 1943 held their first reunion July 10 with 22 former classmates attending. Of the original 50 graduates two are deceased and the others were unable to attend.

A special 22nd anniversary edition of the old high school newspaper, "The Bulldog," was edited by Jean Atkins Sensing to record the event and the current activities of all the members of the class.

During the afternoon an informal gathering at the Park Terrace started a day of renewing friendships that lasted until early in the morning.

The wives, husbands, and teachers of the class members were included for a smorgasbord dinner in the evening. The dining room was decorated with the school colors, royal blue and white.

J. O. Lewis, who was superintendent of schools in 1943, opened the evening program with an invocation, Billy Gore, senior president, welcomed the class members and their guests, and J. T. Cavendar, the class vice president, responded.

W. L. Holland, principal of Fulton High in 1943, introduced faculty members who taught the class, and Mrs. Jean Sensing presented them with gifts.

Going back to their eighth-grade graduation, Sonny Puckett read the class prophecy and Fred Winter the class will.

After the formal program the class members were asked to introduce their wives or husbands and to give a brief sketch of their businesses or professions and the composition of their families.

It was decided to hold another reunion in July 1968 to mark the class' 25th anniversary and to hold others at five-year intervals.

Singing of the Fulton High alma mater closed the program.

Door prizes, gifts, and flowers were donated by the Park Terrace Gift Shop, Billy and Ann's Flower Shop, and Tyner's Jewelers, all owned by class members. A reunion picture was made through the Attending the banquet were Charles and Jane Heithcock Copeland of Martin; Charles and Marjorie Daves Pennington and J. D. and Gladys Eaves Simpson of Fulton; Darter and Jeanne Brown White of Centralia, Ill.; Patsy McClelland Winstead of Memphis; Jean Atkins Sensing of Fulton;

Joe and Hazel Meacham Cowin of Murray; Donald and Betty Jeat Shupe Purvis of Memphis; Foster and Mary Nelle Winston Terrell of Rockville, Md.; Jody Armstrong of Tulsa, Okla.; Fred Winter of Virginia Beach, Va.; Billy and Ann Gore, Jack and Martha Moore, and Sonny and Vada Puckett of Fulton;

T. and Marge Cavender, Kettering, Ohio; Glen "Tate" and Doty Crawford, San Francisco; Billy and Beverly Hagan, Fulton; Jennings and Shirley Kearby, Jeffersonville, Ky.; Eugene and Sue Lynch, Memphis; Charles and Phyllis Pigue, Wheaton, Ill.; and John and Mary Catherine Hancock, Fulton.

SCHOOL BOARD OF EDUCATION
PLAN OF COMPLIANCE WITH TITLE VI OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964 FULTON CITY (IND) BOARD OF EDUCATION, FULTON, KENTUCKY

The Fulton City (Ind) Board of Education, Fulton, Kentucky in meeting assembled this 19th day of July, 1965, adopted the following plan of compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act:

I. FREEDOM OF CHOICE
A.—Effective with the commencement of the school year 1965-1966, all students in the public schools of Fulton City Schools shall have freedom of choice, in the manner and through the medium hereinafter stated, to attend any school in the Fulton City School system, regardless of race, color or national origin and enjoy the benefit of all services and facilities available at said school. The freedom of choice herein granted is granted to the parent, or guardian of the pupil or pupils involved, or to such person standing in loco parentis to such pupil or pupils, and such freedom of choice is mandatory and must be exercised at the time and in the manner herein specified. Teachers, principals and other school personnel shall not be permitted to advise, recommend or otherwise influence such decision. Nor, will school personnel either favor or penalize children because of the choice made.

B.—In the event overcrowding results at a particular school from the choices made, priority of assignment shall be based solely on proximity without regard to racial considerations.

C.—Those whose choices are rejected because of overcrowding will be notified and permitted to make an effective choice of a formerly Negro or formerly white school.

II. REGISTRATION
A.—All pupils attending school in the Fulton City school system during the school year 1965-1966, shall register for the school year 1965-1966 by returning the registration forms to Mr. Charles Thomas, Principal of Carr Elementary, during the week of August 9th through 13th, 1965. During such registration period it shall be mandatory that the parent or guardian of the pupil registering to attend school during the school year 1965-1966 exercise the choice granted in paragraph 1A hereof.

B.—All pupils who will be six (6) years of age on or before December 31, 1965, and who intend to commence the first grade for the school year 1965-1966, in the Fulton City School system, shall by and through their parent or guardian or other person standing in loco parentis, register at the school of their choice during the week of August 9th through the 13th, 1965.

C.—Pupils transferring into the Fulton City System for the school year 1965-1966 who did not attend school in such system during the school year 1964-1965 and who are not commencing the first grade, shall by and through their parent or guardian or other person standing in loco parentis, register at the school of their choice on August 16th or 17th, 1965.

D.—In case of overcrowding, first preference in choice of schools will be given to those pupils who register during August 9th through August 13th, 1965.

E.—The choice made at the time of registration as hereinabove set out shall be binding for the school year 1965-1966.

F.—The foregoing plan of registration will be followed annually, except that registration for the 1966-1967 school year and each year thereafter shall take place during the last full calendar week of April, Monday through Friday.
Note: Registration forms will be mailed direct to parents of children involved.

Oilmen Stamp Approval On Bond Issue

The $176 million bond issue to be on the Kentucky ballot in November is the "best foreseeable method" of meeting the immediate requirements of the state's highway and certain school construction programs.

This is the opinion of the Kentucky Petroleum Council, expressed here, today, by Thomas H. Maxedon, executive director of the Council, at a meeting of the Fulton County Petroleum Committee in Fulton Wednesday.

Federal funds for highway construction could be matched without the $139 million designated for highways in the bond issue, but the "consequences of matching federal funds out of present revenue would be a severe blow to Kentucky's over-all highway program and a setback to our economy," Maxedon went on to say.

By putting up $136 million Kentucky will get nearly $600 million in federal funds for highway construction.

Railroads Back In Ballgame, Says RR Association Official

"The railroads are back in the ballgame."

That terse summing up of recent railroad experience comes from an officer of the Association of American Railroads.

Last year the rails moved 42.9 percent of intercity freight for a substantial increase after a steady decline from 1946 to 1960.

In 1960 the railroads moved 74 percent of intercity freight traffic and 66.6 percent in 1946 when the

State C of C Adds Approval To Bond Issue

Directors of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, meeting recently in Elizabethtown, endorsed the proposed $176-million bond issue to be voted upon in the general election in Kentucky next November.

The action was taken following study of a report prepared for the Kentucky Better Roads Council by a special study committee, headed by J. Stephen Watkins, Lexington. The committee had been assigned the responsibility of studying the possible methods of financing Kentucky's highway construction and modernization program to determine the method best for Kentucky at this time.

At the same time, the KCC board passed a resolution strongly recommending that no more revenue bonds be issued beyond those already committed for the building of toll roads or toll facilities unless feasibility studies show that such projects would produce revenue sufficient to provide for payments for both principal and interest over the life of the bonds.

TVA Continues Development Plans In Land Between The Lakes Area

The TVA expects to spend $9.9 million for continuing development of the Land Between the Lakes Recreation Area in the next year officials have announced.

The cost includes land purchased and construction of roads and other facilities in the area between Kentucky and Barkley Lakes. Congressional approval will be required before all the funds will be available.

TVA has completed and opened the Rushing Creek campground and preliminary work has begun on a Conservation Education Center and on a second family campground in the area.

Barkley Lake is expected to reach its normal winter level about the first of the year.
About 130 men are now employed on TVA projects in the Land Between the Lakes region.
The recreation area is one of a dozen major TVA construction projects in various stages of design and construction. The total cost will be about $160 million. Of this, $117 million will be used to provide additional power facilities to meet the growing needs of the area.

UK'S MAIN CAMPUS ENROLLMENT IS 3,819

Summer enrollment on the University of Kentucky campus at Lexington totals 3,819. This figure represents about 500 more than were registered for last year's summer session, and does not include those persons who are attending or will attend various seminars and short courses throughout the summer months. In addition, the UK community college system has an enrollment of 1,015, a gain of 424 over the 1964 summer figure, when only five colleges were in existence.

SPECIAL EDUCATION COURSES UNDER WAY

One hundred and twenty-five persons have received stipends to take special education courses at the University of Kentucky this

Cadet David Nanney In ROTC Training

David Nanney, Jr., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nanney, Route 3, is attending the U. S. Sixty Army ROTC summer camp at Fort Lewis, Wash. His home is in Palo Alto, Calif.

Nanney is a 1965 graduate of Stanford University. His father, a former resident of Martin, is a colonel in the Army and Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Stanford.

Active in the military marksmanship program, Cadet Nanney is the recipient of the Walter Army Society Marksmanship Award for 1964 and was a member of the Stanford Rifle and Pistol Club.

He is one of 1,400 cadets from 46 colleges and universities in training at Ft. Lewis to qualify for a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army and expects an artillery assignment upon completion of his training.

WATERFIELD—

"If he continues to divert attention of the public from the real issues, taxes and the bond issue, and if the opportunity (to call a special session) was presented, I would give it serious consideration."

Waterfield referred to Breathitt's efforts to crack down on pinball operations and to put more controls on strip-mines.

Breathitt was asked about a report earlier Tuesday that he might call a special session this week to convene later in the year.

The governor said his thinking has not changed. He said the possibility of a special session "is still open." The governor delayed a planned special session on school financing legislation when the high court's landmark tax decision was rendered.

Breathitt said he is conferring with revenue officials almost daily on the tax assessment question.

Bids Received For Building At UT Martin

The University of Tennessee has received three bids for the construction of a student center at the Martin Branch and plans to award the contract in the immediate future.

The two-story, air-conditioned center will contain a cafeteria, kitchen and dining room, snack bar, a lounge and auxiliary lounges, game rooms, student meeting rooms, activity rooms, ballroom, book store, and post office.

Construction is expected to take 425 days. Yeats and Gaskill of Memphis is the architect.

The prospective contractors and their bids are Forcum-Lannon, Inc. of Dyersburg, $1,451,290; McAdoo Contractors, Inc. of Union City, $1,465,300; and Hugh G. Scudder of Union City, $1,436,020.

SCHEDULE REVISED

Area Young People Working This Summer Urged To Get SS Numbers

Area young people, 16-21 years of age, who obtain summer jobs through President Johnson's Youth Opportunity Campaign should be sure to obtain a social security account number card before they start work if they do not already have one, Charles Whitaker, social security district manager in Paducah, said today.

Employers must know the youth's account number so that the social security contribution can be deducted from wages. This also insures that the boy or girl will receive social security credit for the wages received, Whitaker continued.

Boys and girls 16 to 21 years of age who do not have account number cards should stop in at or write to the social security office, located 112 South Tenth Street, Paducah, and fill out an application for an account number. Youngsters should show their social security card to their employer.

The Social Security Administration is cooperating in the Youth Opportunity Campaign by offering summer employment to a number of 16-21 year old boys and girls in several of its offices throughout the country, as well as in its central office in Baltimore, Maryland, Whitaker stated.

Since all those selected to work in social security offices are chosen only from a special register maintained by the State Employment Service office, Whitaker said that youngsters should not apply for work at the social security office. Inquiries should be directed to the Employment Service office at Mayfield or Paducah.

The purpose of the nationwide Youth Opportunity Campaign is to find summer jobs for at least 500,000 of the estimated 2 million young people who would otherwise be looking for work with little hope of finding it.

To accomplish this, the President has asked that Federal, State, and local governments and private employers join forces to create meaningful work opportunities for 16-21 year olds.

HOUSING

anted by the Federal Government. The City of Fulton created the Commission as an independent agency and appoints its members but has no part in the financing of the Commission's projects.

The Fulton Municipal Housing Commission was formed four years ago with Horton Baird as the first executive director. Within a few months popular support for it had been shown and preliminary work was begun on the present projects. Numerous delays were encountered, but construction was finally begun late this spring.

The present members of the Commission are Myatt; James Green, chairman; Mrs. Arch Huddleston, vice chairman; Mayor

Gilbert De...; Lonnie Roper; and Lorene Harding.

Myatt in appraising the three Fulton housing areas said, "We are proud of the project, it is a nice one, and it is something Fulton will be proud of." Mrs. Harding added that it will definitely be an asset to the community.

Other municipal housing developments are being planned, constructed, or operated in Union City, Martin, Hickman, Mayfield, Murray, and a large number of other area cities.

If Fulton decides to undertake urban renewal, the presence of the new housing developments will meet an essential prerequisite for federal aid.

Farm Credit May Prove To Be Big Weapon To Battle Rural Poverty

A small amount of credit to needy farm and rural families may prove to be one of the Federal government's biggest weapons in the battle against rural poverty in Carlisle, Fulton and Hickman Counties.

This is the feeling of Raymond E. Hogue, who supervises the anti-poverty campaign in Carlisle, Fulton and Hickman Counties for the Farmers Home Administration.

Among the anti-poverty weapons available in rural areas is a recently authorized loan program which enables eligible farm and rural families to get capital to finance farm or business enterprises that will lead to increased income.

The new credit program offers help for the first time to many rural families in Carlisle, Fulton and Hickman Counties who previously were unable to obtain credit to improve their earnings.

Loans are also available to rural cooperatives serving low-income families and providing services and facilities not otherwise available.

Borrowers are provided continuing management aid to help them make a success of their farming or new business.

Farm families may obtain loans to finance agricultural enterprises. Funds may be used to purchase livestock, machinery and equipment, construct or repair farm buildings, pay annual operating expenses for seed, feed and fertilizer, refinance real estate debts and purchase land.

The loans also may be used to buy shares in small cooperatives that serve rural people.

Farm and nonfarm families living in the country or in small towns of not more than 2,500 population may obtain loans to finance non-agricultural enterprises.

Economic opportunity loans may be made in amounts up to $2,500, bear 4-1/2 percent interest, and may be repaid over periods up to 15 years.

Eligible applicants must have an income that does not cover basic family living needs, be unable to obtain credit from other sources, including the regular loan program of Farmers Home Administration and show a reasonable promise of succeeding in the enterprise to be financed by the loan.

Loans are made through the Farmers Home Administration office located in the Clinton Bank Building, Clinton, Ky., Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.; Post Office Bldg., Hickman, Ky., on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.; and the Holman-Ford Bldg., Bardwell, Ky., on the second Friday of each month from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

4-H Youths Keep Fit

When boys and girls club work first started in the early 1900's, the emblem was a 3-H clover symbolizing Head, Heart, Hands. Around 1911 the 4th H was added to represent Health. Ever since, both here and in about 75 other countries, this emblem has represented the equal training of "head, heart, hands and health for better living."

Health projects have grown over the years in knowledge, activities and membership, says the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises 4-H programs. And keeping fit is one important segment of the national 4-H Health program which today enrolls some 677,069 boys and girls.

It is easy to keep in good shape during summer months through sports, games, hikes, camping and outdoor work. But, cautions the 4-H Health bulletin, there is more to maintaining good health than strenuous exercise.

This recent publication points out the need for three nutritious meals a day, plenty of sleep, periodic physical checkups and a sensible balance of work and play. It also urges 4-H Club members to look for ways to improve family and community health.

Individual members and clubs can win awards for doing an outstanding job. Winners are selected by the Extension Service. Award donor and sponsor of the 4-H Health program for the last 10 years is Eli Lilly and Company.

The boy or girl judged best in the state will be a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago next fall, and will compete for one of six $500 scholarships. In the county, the best four club projects will be recognized with a certificate and medals will be presented to as many as four top individuals.

BANGS VACCINATION CHANGES

On July 1, a big change was made in the bangs vaccination procedure for getting cattle vaccinated for bangs disease. As of July 1, (1) you will not receive any more cards from Tennessee Department of Agriculture for you to fill out telling how many calves you have of the proper age needing bangs vaccination - (2) veterinarians will not likely be notifying you ahead of time that they will be at your farm a certain time to vaccinate calves for bangs disease - (3) veterinarians will not be paid for a trip to your farm to vaccinate heifer calves.

BUT - AND PLEASE READ THIS - You can still get your heifer calves vaccinated for bangs disease free if you will follow this procedure. When you call a veterinarian to your farm for some reason such as treating a sick cow, get your heifer calves up and tell the veterinarian when you call him that you have heifer calves you want him to vaccinate for bangs. While he is at your farm the USDA will pay him to vaccinate your calves for bangs and furnish him the medicine free.

If you call the Veterinarian to your farm to just bangs vaccinate heifer calves, he will charge you a certain amount for making the trip.

HAMPSHIRE HOG SALE

Dwayne Roney of the Shady Grove community is busy this week getting ready for the Tennessee Hampshire Hog Sale that will be held at Dresden next Saturday, July 24, at 1:30 p. m. Mr. Roney has a boar and several gilts consigned to the sale. Other Hampshire breeders of this area promoting the sale and consigning hogs to the sale include Herman Westbrook.

Farm Dates To Remember:

July 19-23 - Junior 4-H Camp - Milan.
July 21 - Jersey Cattle Field Day - Jackson.
July 22 - Hereford Field Day - Dyersburg.
July 23 - Feeder Pig Sale - Mayfield.
July 24 - Tennessee Hampshire Hog Sale - Dresden.
July 27 - West Tennessee Junior Beef Heifer Show - Jackson.
July 30 - Obion County Angus Tour.
July 30 - Artificial Breeder's Association Meeting - Trenton.

CATTLE FIELD DAYS

A number of Beef Cattle associations and Dairy Cattle Associations will have their field days in the very near future. Any cattleman or dairyman can always pick up some new ideas and information from attending the meetings of the breed associations.

The schedule for the field days is as follows: Jersey Cattle - July 21 at West Tennessee Experiment Station, Jackson - Hereford Cattle - July 22, Charles Moore and P. H. White Farms near Dyersburg, - West Tennessee Artificial Breeding Association - July 30, 7:30 p. m., Trenton, Tennessee and the Obion County Angus Association will tour five Angus farms on July 30.

Cotton farmers who have taken part in the domestic allotment program for the 1965 upland cotton crop will begin getting final program payments soon after August 15.

The payments represent an additional price support to growers who voluntarily held their cotton acreage within the farm's domestic allotment and met other applicable provisions of the program. The payments are figured at 4.35 cents a pound on the normal yield of cotton established for the farm times the acreage planted for harvest. The payments will raise returns for the 1965 upland cotton crop substantially.

Growers on farms participating in the domestic allotment program - including small producers who participated without reducing acreage - are eligible for the additional price support in the form of payments. Price support loans averaging 29 cents per pound for Middling 1-inch upland cotton at average location are available not only on cotton from these farms but also on cotton from farms which are not signed up in the domestic allotment program but where the acreage is kept within the farm's effective allotment.

The Chairman explained that, last spring, when farm operators signed up to take part in the 1965 domestic allotment program, they could receive as much as half of the estimated price support payment in advance. In cases where an advance payment was made, the payment now available represents the balance due.

Operators on so-called "small farms" - where the effective allotment was 15 acres or less and no acreage was released - did not need to sign up in order to qualify for the price support payments. Plantings on these farms did not have to be reduced below the farm allotment in order to participate in the domestic allotment program. So the need for such "small farm" operators now is for them to visit the ASCA county office and file an application showing that they are entitled to the price support payment for taking part in the domestic allotment program.

There should be no delay in the prompt receipt of payments where performance has been checked and the acreage of cotton determined to be within the domestic allotment.

Had a good rain last night, first we have had in a long time.

So many people on vacation. Mrs. Grace Mohler spent a week in Water Valley with her mother, Mrs. Henley, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rowland were also there. Mrs. Hazel Hays spent her vacation at home, catching up on housework and just resting. Rev. Grady and Marie Walters bought a new car and left last Monday for Kentucky for two weeks to see friends and kinfolk.

Rev. Louis Bledsoe and his family spent a week visiting his wife's mother and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Red Bouden. While here he preached the morning service July 11. Miss Wendy Bouden played the piano for the services and did a great job, as it was the first time in a strange church and people also a little nervous.

Rev. J. R. Wooten and family were here also for a week. They stayed at his brother's, Jack Wooten and wife, Myra. He preached the evening service July 11 and Mrs. Kathy Hauselman played the piano. We had a good singing fest for forty minutes and Rev. Wooten brought a wonderful message.

Rev. Paul Cook and family were also here on vacation to spend a week with his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cook, Sr., of Woodlawn Avenue.

Mrs. Gracy Holland is home from the hospital and she and baby are doing fine.

Rev. Nunn and family returned from their vacation on Saturday, July 17, and he filled the pulpit on Sunday, the 18.

James and Frances Garland and family spent a week on vacation, seeing their folks and friends.

A good tip for you who have children in rear seat. Give each one a piece of paper and a pencil and have them write down what they see unusual along the highway.

They won't get tired and fidget that way. Try it and see.

Mrs. Bill Holland took three of her children back to Fulton to spend some time with her while her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Grace Holland, gets some rest after he long stay in the hospital.

See you in church Sunday. I you work Sundays, how about Wednesday night? We still have mid-week services.

GOOD FRUITS

"The wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated,

full of mercy and GOOD FRUITS."

There are two forces at work in this world, evil and good. We have the freedom to choose between these two things.

"O taste and see that the Lord is good:

blessed is the man that trusteth in him."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Final Session Of Instruction Set At Pool

come to Kentucky when they know that they will meet local people in a relaxed and enthusiastic mood. Your Festival is an outstanding opportunity for the Department of Commerce to assist you and I shall devote every energy to helping your people with the project.

"I hope to be in Fulton soon for an over-night stay to discuss your plans with you. I feel that the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce may also want to help plan the Industry Executives Luncheon."

Miss Peden will be in Fulton on Thursday, August 5, and will be an overnight guest with friends here. Governor Edward T. Breathitt, who will conduct state government in Hickman on that day, has also been invited to be a guest in the city to work out plans for the entire Festival program.

Meanwhile, Mayors Gilbert DeMyer and Rex Ruddle informed the Festival board recently that their respective city administrations have set aside a financial appropriation to help stage the Festival. Both mayors, enthusiastically about the Festival planning, pledged the support of their administrations to work to make this year's event a successful undertaking. Both are ex-officio members of the Banana Festival board.

While the plans for the program are well in the making, financing the program is the chief concern of Festival officials.

The final session of water safety instruction to be given this summer at the Willow Plunge Swimming Pool will begin Monday and run through August 6. The registration deadline is noon today (Thursday).

The classes will run for 45 minutes. The intermediate class will begin at 8, the advanced beginner class at 9, the beginner class for children seven and under at 10 and for those eight and over at 11.

An adult class began Monday and will run through August 18. Junior and senior lifesaving courses will start August 9 and end August 20. Registration must be completed by noon August 7.

Further information can be obtained from Barry Roper at 472-9058.

NOTEBOOK—

Rev. Platt said he would see what could be done, but that they had little money to operate on. I called the Red Cross. They asked if he was a veteran, which he isn't, saying that they help service men and veterans first, but would see what could be done. The judge said call the magistrate, that he couldn't do much, if anything.

To make a long story short, I called about ten people and each one said they couldn't do anything right away, but they suggested someone for me to call.

After all the calling, I accomplished nothing except to find out that if someone needs help, they could starve before all the red tape went through.

I am still trying to find someone to call to get help for this couple immediately.

Goulder Implement Burglary Unsolved

Fulton police reported today that a burglary at the Goulder Implement Co. on the Mayfield highway has not yet been solved.

The building was entered through a broken-out rear window Sunday night, according to an employee of the company. Among the items stolen were a battery charger, four tires, a radio, an adding machine, and a box of hand tools.

The robbery was discovered by Harry Duke when he opened the building Monday morning.

your standards, these things become completely unimportant except as a part of the very difference you went looking for. But that first night or two can test your pioneer heritage.

One isolated little town in the jungle had an especially interesting hotel. It was a small, octagonal, one-story building with a tin roof and windows that could only be closed with shutters.

The bathroom was in one corner of the room and had a head-high wall on three sides. The cold-water shower was in the middle of the enclosure, which was basically a shower stall with the sink and "convenience" inside.

The "convenience" was little over a foot high and designed to eliminate the need for wood on the top. Over it was an old oil drum. To flush the thing it was first necessary to turn a valve to run water into the drum, then turn another valve to accomplish the rest of the job.

When you have never seen such an arrangement the fact that it is primitive is not at all annoying. In fact, it is fun.

The best meal we had in our entire time in Mexico was one of steaks cooked in the Mexican style with onions, tomatoes, a little chili, and numerous other things. With all the side dishes it cost forty cents apiece.

As with the hotels, this was not a five-star establishment. It was a little hole-in-the-wall place completely open to the street. But it was run by a woman with real pride in her cooking and a sincere desire to please her customers.

The Mexican people were as interesting as any of the sights we saw. The next installment will deal with our experiences with them.

Terry Beadles

Coach Calls Beadles One Of Best In 20 Years At Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. — There will be a new chapter opening up this fall in the Terry Beadles Success Story. Kentucky's 6-foot, 190-pound sophomore quarterback from Fulton scored a 49-yard touchdown on his first play from scrimmage as a Kentucky freshman last year and went on to lead the team in total offense with 614 yards in only three games (he missed one with an injury). Under his leadership, the Kittens were undefeated for a third straight year.

"He's one of the best football players Kentucky has recruited in the past 20 years," Kentucky head coach Charlie Bradshaw commented.

Looming ahead for Beadles, however, was an obstacle named Rick Norton—the Kentucky quarterback who led the Southeastern Conference in passing and total offense as a junior last season.

"Very few sophomores are ready to play college quarterback," assistant coach Bob Ford says. "But we had a hole in the secondary and we asked Terry if he'd be willing to play defensive safety. His answer was typical of him: Terry said, 'I don't care where I play so long as it's where I can help the team the most. If it's defensive safety, that's great with me—I want to be a starter.'"

"Playing safety will require that Terry be the best athlete in the secondary," Ford says. "He'll have to cover the most ground, be the quickest and most agile, and he'll have to be the key man in diagnosing the plays. He can do all of that."

Meanwhile, he will be groomed to step into Norton's shoes in 1966. "This year he'll be kept abreast of what's happening on offense, and he will play offense in spot occasions."

The son of Mr. and Mrs.

Stanley Beadles, 232 N. College St., Fulton, began the Success Story at Fulton High, where he was an all-state quarterback and rolled up 1,020 yards rushing on 100 carries his senior season. He won the starting quarterback job for the West in the annual all-star game at Lexington, scored both touchdowns in a 14-0 victory, and was named the contest's outstanding back.

He chose Kentucky, he said, "because I wanted to play football at the best school, and I think we will be national champs."

After his first year at the university, where he majors in history in the college of education, he hasn't changed the tune.

"Playing at Kentucky proved to be the biggest challenge I ever faced," he says. "It has given me a chance to attain pride and the other qualities I wouldn't have developed otherwise. It's hard work, but you can imagine the pride I felt in it when the varsity came back to Lexington after beating Ole Miss (27-21) last year."

This summer he's working for McDade Construction Co. of Fulton, which is widening KY 51 in Western Kentucky. "It's hot and tiring," he says, "but it's good for me. I expect to be in the best possible shape when I report back this fall so I can help Kentucky win every game and then win a bowl game next January first."

—And add that next chapter to the Terry Beadles Success Story. SUN-DEMOCRAT, PADUCAH.

Football Jamboree Scheduled August 21st

MARTIN—Head Martin High School football coach, Jim Graves, announced tentative plans this week for the annual Football Jamboree on August 21 at the local gridiron.

Graves said that he had received confirmations from South Fulton, Dresden, Greenfield, and Otis Central after mailing those high schools invitations to participate in the event.

The jamboree is four quarters of football with two different squads playing each other in each quarter.

Proceeds from the sale of advance tickets will be used for the purchase of athletic insurance by the Martin High School athletic fund, while those tickets purchased at the gate on that evening of the game will be split eight ways among the participating schools.

Graves said that three other schools had, in effect confirmed their intention to come and play, but had not as yet made it official.

A quick note to let you know Miss Ecuador is making plans to accompany the Operation Amigo group of students to Fulton in September. Last night I found out she is a stewardess for Ecuadorean Airlines, the official carrier for their country, which makes it easier. Incidentally, Ecuadorean Airlines cooperates unlimitingly with the Operation Amigo program.

Thank you so much for your wonderful enthusiasm and cooperation in this program.

Officials Catch Fish To Feed Florida 'Gators

MIAMI, Fla. — Florida conservation officials are using electric shocks to catch fish for starving alligators in Everglades National Park.

Millions of fish died in the park when a drought dried up ponds and waterholes. Hungry alligators are beginning to eat their own young.

State wildlife officers, using lines, a net and an electric generator, send a shock that stuns the fish. When they float to the surface they are netted.

Keep Duty On Safety Pins, Ribicoff Urges

WASHINGTON — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., has urged President Johnson not to lower duties on safety pins.

The Tariff Commission recently reported that major producers of safety pins could adjust to lower tariffs by increasing imports of pins or producing other products.

Ribicoff said lowering of the duties would eliminate the pin industry, centered in the Naugatuck Valley of Connecticut.

Handsome Steeple: a crowning touch to South Fulton Baptist Church

Up! Up!—and right in place went the new shiny white steeple onto the South Fulton Baptist Church on Monday afternoon, July 12th. This 40-foot aluminum steeple was constructed at Campbellsville, Ky., and trucked intact to the South Fulton church. Once in place it reaches 20 feet from the ground and can be seen for some distance.

The Rev. Gerald Stow, pastor of the church, explained that Campbellsville Industries is a division of Campbellsville College, a four-year Baptist College, and that much of the steeple construction is done by students.

Construction of the South Fulton Baptist church sanctuary began with a ground breaking ceremony on Easter Sunday and the scheduled completion date of this $90,000 structure is August 15. The new sanctuary will seat 600 people. Another floor beneath the sanctuary has a kitchen and educational facilities.

Head Coach Robert Carroll said Beeler's duties will be concerned primarily with pass defense and pass offense.

For the past several years Beeler has served as assistant coach at Indiana University under Phil Dickens. During his stay at Indiana, he served as freshman coach and later was in charge of the varsity defensive backfield.

Before going to Indiana Beeler coached four years at Oneida High School where his teams had 10-0 seasons in his last two years. His first coaching job was at Williamburg

High School, Williamburg, Ky.

Beeler played tailback at Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C. He was named most valuable player his senior year, was selected as a member of the Little All-America team, and was chosen to play in the Blue-Gray game in 1951. He also set a Southeastern con-

Spaceman Cookies

Spaceman Cookies, perched on marshmallow "launching pads," take popular gingerbread men into the realm of tomorrow. These cookies haven't zoomed aloft in a spaceship yet, but they're guaranteed to send your youngsters into "orbit."

Bake Spaceman Cookies with enriched self-rising flour to be sure of extra nourishment. Enrichment contributes valuable nutrients—the B-vitamins thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, the minerals iron and calcium, plus protein and food energy—all "musts" on your family's diet list.

The leavening and salt pre-blended by the miller in specific amounts into self-rising flour speed preparation, too. For best flavor bake the cookies a day ahead and store in a tightly covered container to "mellow" overnight.

SPACEMAN COOKIES

About 3 dozen cookies
4 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup light molasses
1/2 cup melted shortening or oil
1 egg
Currants or raisins
Confectioners sugar icing

Set out baking sheets. Preheat oven to 350. Sift together flour, ginger and cinnamon. Blend molasses, shortening and egg. Mix thoroughly into flour mixture. Chill at least 2 hours. Roll 1/4-inch thick. Cut out "spaceman" using cardboard pattern or lightly floured cookie cutter. Place on baking sheet and decorate with currants or raisins. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool on wire rack, then decorate with confectioners sugar icing. Store in tightly closed container.

If you don't sift and in the absence of other directions, spoon flour directly from container into a one-cup dry measure, level off, then remove two level tablespoonfuls, according to USDA recommendations.

Miss Hart, 36-Year Vet, Fats' Friday, Retires This Week

WASHINGTON, D. C.—36 years ago, Dresden, Tennessee loaned one of its daughters to the nation's capital and after almost four decades of work as secretary to two members of the United States House of Representatives, she's calling it quits.

Miss Hope Howard Hart, who, since the opening of the 71st Congress on March 4, 1929, has been hard at work in the offices of both the late Representative Jere Cooper and the present 8th District Congressman, Robert A. Everett, announced her retirement last week. Cooper represented the 9th congressional district.

"I'm proud of every day I was privileged to serve these two men," Miss Hart said. "They were outstanding leaders, and it has been a wonderful 36 years."

The daughter of a now-deceased Methodist minister, Miss Hart lived in every county in the 8th District with the exception of Crockett. A former teacher, she graduated from high school in Murray, Kentucky and attended West Tennessee Teachers College (now Memphis State University).

Full Reassessment Jan. 1 Is Impossible, Official Says

Morehead, Ky.—A state education official said yesterday that it would be impossible to reassess property at its full cash value on Jan. 1, 1966, as the Kentucky Court of Appeals has ordered.

"I do not believe it can be done, as some people are saying, on January 1," said Samuel Alexander, assistant superintendent of public instruction. He spoke to Eastern Kentucky school superintendents meeting at Morehead State College.

"There's not the first word in the Court of Appeals' decision that says it (reassessment) has got to be done then," Alexander said.

The decision means, he said, "that we've simply got to get moving on that date." Furthermore, Alexander said:

"Even if property could be assessed at its full cash value on Jan. 1, which is absolutely impossible, we wouldn't even levy a tax until Jan. 1, 1967."

Delay To 'Calm'

The delay between establishing new tax rates and collecting the first taxes based upon them will mean that "people will have time to think about it and calm down," Alexander said.

Alexander is the second state official this week to say that the court ruling does not mean 100 per cent assessment must begin Jan. 1.

Revenue Commissioner James Luckett, rebutting a statement by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, said the court merely called Jan. 1 "the most appropriate beginning point."

The next sentence in the court opinion says, however:

"The county tax commissioners, the commissioner of revenue and other public officials will be held strictly accountable for the performance of their constitutional and statutory duties with respect to the assessment of property for tax purposes on and after that date."

"... Got To Get Working ..."

Referring in his talk to the commissioner's statement, Alexander said, "Mr. Luckett says, and I agree, that we have got to get working on it (reassessment) right now."

At least one county tax commissioner has said that reassessment on Jan. 1 will pose few problems for his staff.

Jefferson County Tax Commissioner Larry Layne said last month that revision of some 200,000 tax bills to reflect full-value assessment could be accomplished easily there. Jefferson County processes its tax bills electronically.

Alexander told the superintendents that school boards must proceed cautiously in announcing new tax rates, lest they add to the apprehension that already exists over possibly higher taxes.

"We must let the people know that we are not going to levy taxes that will destroy them. That would be the worst thing that could happen to the schools," Alexander said.

"We must reassure ..."

"We must also reassure members of the general assembly that we (Kentucky school officials) are men of reasonable judgment (and) that we are not going to shoot for the moon."

"We should encourage (the legislature) to hold onto the $1.50 rate." If a special session of the legislature were convened and a reduction in the tax-rate limit enacted, Alexander said, "it would be a tragedy." He said a lower maximum rate would kill Kentucky school systems' long-range growth plans.

Alexander said he was not surprised when the Court of Appeals handed down the 100 per cent assessment ruling.

"The thing that's so amazing, so puzzling, is why the people of Kentucky, or school people, or anybody else, waited for 75 years" before pressing for such a ruling.

An Airy Summer Dessert

The most delightful desserts of summertime are the cool, airy concoctions that call for the season's fresh fruit.

Particularly inviting is this Lemon-Fruit Parfait, that blends layers of fruit and fluffy, lemon flavored gelatin dessert. It's served chilled in tall parfait glasses with a crown of whipped cream.

This parfait can be prepared with a variety of fruits... fresh raspberries, strawberries, blueberries, sliced peaches. Or use frozen fruit and make this dessert any season of the year.

Beaten egg whites create the fluffy air of the gelatin layer, and bottled lemon juice gives a refreshingly tangy taste. Bottled lemon juice is so convenient to use in any recipe calling for lemon juice. Use it for summer lemonade, too.

LEMON FRUIT PARFAIT
1 envelope unflavored gelatin

1/2 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 1/3 cups milk
2/3 cup RealLemon bottled lemon juice
1/3 cup sugar
1 pint sweetened fruit
1/2 cup whipped cream
Combine gelatin, 1/2 cup sugar, salt, slightly beaten egg yolks and milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture begins to thicken. Do not boil. Remove from heat and slowly add bottled lemon juice. Cool. Chill until mixture thickens slightly. Beat egg whites until fluffy. Slowly add 1/3 cup sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold lemon mixture into egg whites. Chill. Spoon chilled gelatin mixture into parfait glasses alternately with fruit. Top each parfait with whipped cream. 4 to 6 servings.

death throes might not be calm enough or rational enough to make a dependable declaration on any subject.

Yet there are also good reasons for accepting the evidence. As a practical matter, it may offer the best possible chance of bringing a killer to justice. Furthermore, the very nearness of death is likely to induce the victim to be truthful. In the words of a dying Shakespearean character:

"What in the world should make me now deceive, Since I must lose the use of all deceit?"

Balancing these conflicting considerations, the law generally does accept a deathbed accusation as evidence—but only under careful safeguards.

For example, it is necessary that the victim not only be near death but be aware of it. If he still has hope of surviving, he might not be sufficiently motivated to tell the truth.

But if all hope has fled, his words may be heard in court. In fact, if he is too far gone to speak, even gestures alone may serve. In one case, a dying woman's squeeze of the hand, in response to a question, helped to send her slayer to jail. In another case, a nod of the head was held enough.

Of course, the principle works both ways. A victim's dying words may be used in court not only to prove that the defendant is the killer but also to prove that he is not. As with all rules of law, what may convict the guilty may also free the innocent.

Lady Postman

BROOKLYN, N.Y. —Mrs. Sally Robbins is a female mailman. The five-foot, three-inch blonde, recently appointed as Brooklyn's first distaff clerk-carrier, is the only woman in the 400-man crew at the Central Unit Post Office in this borough. "I enjoy the work," reports Mrs. Robbins, who formerly worked as a temporary mail handler in Manhattan. "Carrying heavy sacks of mail doesn't bother me because as a mail handler I lifted sacks weighing as much as 80 pounds." She feels right at home behind the wheel of the mail truck, too, having been a cab driver in Miami, Fla., for a time.

Boston Monorail Plan Is Rejected

Mayfield Board Will Not Seek $1.50 Tax Rate

All tax and most other State governmental officials said "chaos" could result if some provision was not made to prevent tax payments from skyrocketing.

In a prepared statement today, the Mayfield Board of Education said:

"The Mayfield Independent School Board will not request that the full $1.50 tax rate be levied on property when assessments are raised to their fair and full value. The board realizes that without a reduction in the rate taxes could increase three times or more. It will not place this kind of burden on its citizens. It is not in a position at the present time to determine exactly what the tax rate will be.

When the new assessments have been made, the board can determine then the rate necessary to raise the proper amount of revenue to adequately support our schools."

In a statement today, the Mayfield Board of Education pledged not to seek a full $1.50 tax rate when local property is assessed at 100 percent evaluation in 1966.

Following the Kentucky Court of Appeals ruling recently calling for 100 percent property assessments beginning in 1966, Governor Edward T. Breathitt promised to appeal personally to school boards and fiscal courts for an equitable, sensible tax rate based on critical needs.

How to Be a Window Watcher

Windows—so important to the overall personality of a house, as well as the happiness of the family living in the home—are being taken for granted by the average homeowner.

Here are ten points about windows to check if your summer plans include building a new home or remodeling your present home, suggested by Architectural Aluminum Manufacturers Association.

Make certain that the windows are actually aluminum, because only aluminum windows will never warp, crack, swell or rust. A good test is to place a magnet against the metal frame. It will not hold if the window is aluminum.

You cannot really see the window's ability to fight the elements such as windload, rain resistance or air leakage just by looking at it. However, you can be certain that the window has been tested to perform these tasks if the window frame bears the official red and silver "Quality Certified" label of AAMA.

Be sure that the joints are closely fitted. This insures good performance in the event of inclement weather.

The window should open and close smoothly and quietly. A tight but smooth feel indicates close fitting of frames and good contact of weatherstrip. This indicates good resistance to water penetration and air infiltration.

Be sure that the locks and latches are well attached, operate freely, and are tight and secure when closed.

Try to rattle the window. If it doesn't rattle you can be assured a good sleep during the next windy night.

Look for narrow sight lines and smooth surfaces. They complement the window's appearance and are conducive to low maintenance and easy cleaning.

Be certain there are no sharp or unfinished edges or corners. Not only are they unsightly, but could mean painful cuts or scratches when cleaning or opening and closing the window.
